

Candidates For Positions In Students' Society Announced

Music For Collegians

A second student concert will be held by the Montreal Symphony Orchestra today as a result of interest shown in an earlier concert last November.

At that time, about 850 students from McGill, Loyola, University of Montreal, Sir George Williams, Marianopolis, and student nurses of Montreal hospitals attended a programme paying tribute to the Ballets Russes.

The University Night Concerts are presented by the Symphony as a special benefit to the students. All tickets are $1.00 — a fraction of their normal price. There are no reserved seats.

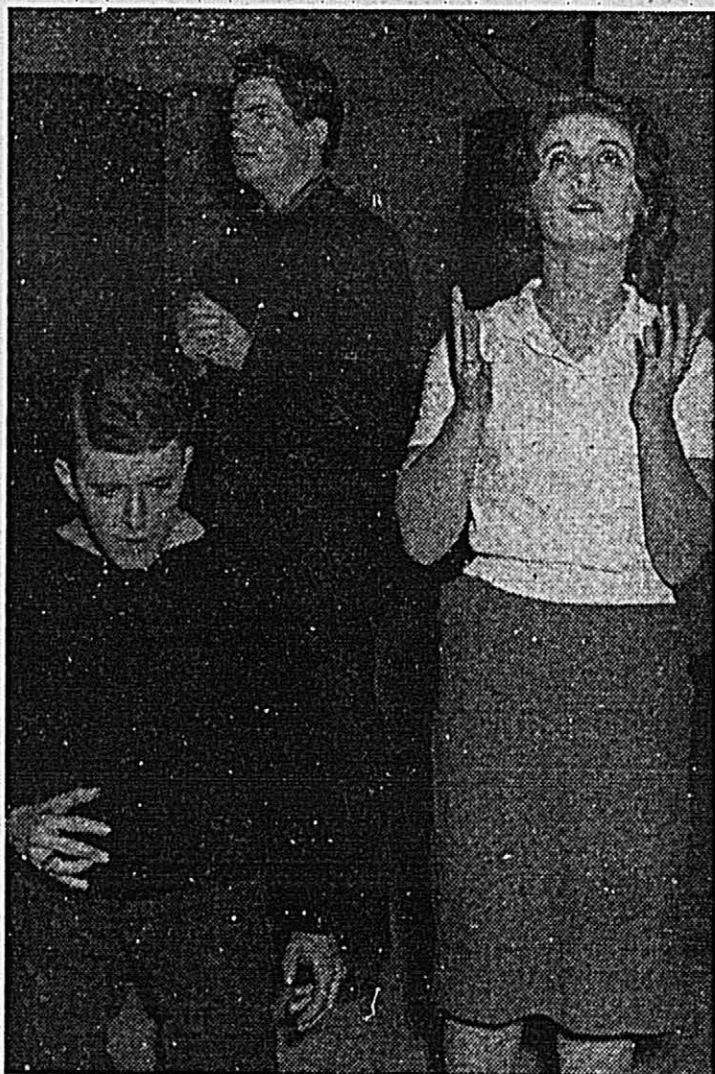

The purpose behind the concerts is to provide a cultural evening at a reasonable price for all Montreal students, and thus stimulate an interest in the symphony which will continue after graduation.

The first concert was strongly endorsed by both SCOPE and NFCUS committees who saw in it "an opportunity for cultural ties between Montreal universities as well as a worthwhile benefit for students".

The second concert, entitled "An Evening in Salzburg", will be devoted to the music of Mozart and Brahms and will feature three Mozart interpreters — Joseph Krips, conductor, and Pierrette Alarie and Leopold Simoneau, Canadian soprano and tenor who will be soloists. Arias and duets from such operas as Don Giovanni, the Marriage of Figaro, and the Magic Flute will be performed while the orchestra will be heard alone in the Symphony No. 1 in C minor by Brahms.

The concert will be held at Plateau Hall at 8.30 pm. Tickets can be obtained at the box office in the Union.

They CAN'T Be Praying For Snow!

A Daily photographer caught players Bob Kaufman, Jocelyn Boyle, and Miriam Wolkove in a fervent scene from James Rothers' play "The People Are Not With Us." This play, directed by Ian Heron, is being staged tonight, arena style, in the Walter M. Stewart Room. Also on the programme will be "The Frogs" and "A Small Play For Large Egos". Tickets are on sale in the Union box office and also may be obtained at the door.

The names of three candidates for the post of Students' Society President and President of the Students' Union and two nominations for the chairmanship of the Students' Athletic Council were released yesterday by Chief Returning Officer, Murray Greenwood. Elections will be held March 4.

Nominated as candidates for President of the Students' Society were Zafar Khan, B.Com. 3, Stuart Smith, M.D.C.M.2 and Mortimer B. Zuckerman, B.C.L.2.

Robert S. Carswell, BA 4, Paul M. Raynault, B.Sc.3, and G. Ward Young, B.Sc.2 will run for the presidency of the Students' Union.

R. Cameron Grout, B.Sc.3 and Henry Mintzberg, B.Eng.4 will contend for the chairmanship of the Students' Athletics Council.

The President of the Students' Society also serves as Chairman of the Students' Executive Council, but has no vote in the SSC unless there is a tie.

ASSUME OFFICE

The Students' Society President and Vice-President, and the Students' Athletics Council Chairman take office at the beginning of the next fiscal year, July 1, 1960. Both the Students' Society Vice-President and the SAC Chairman are on the Students' Executive Council and each have a vote on this body.

In last year's elections, only two candidates vied for the presidency of the Students' Union, while the Chairman of the Students' Athletic Council was acclaimed.

It was in that election year that 49.8% of the students eligible to vote exercised their right to do so. This figure has been approximately the same for the last few years.

CLOSE RACE

Last year's voting for President of the Students' Society recorded a very close race, with Bryce Weir winning by a margin of 94 votes of the nearly 2500 votes cast. In the two previous years, the Students' Presidents had come to office by acclamation.

Other campus societies such as the Women's Union and the Women's Athletic Association will take advantage of the March 4 election to hold their balloting on the same day.

Ballotting will be held at the usual prominent locations on the campus, affording all students the opportunity to vote.

OLD CONSTITUTION

Since the proposed new Students' Society constitution has been referred by the University Senate to the Student Activities Committee for further study, thus delaying an announcement on the final validity of the constitution, all Students' Society elections will be run according to the rules of the old constitution.

The use of the old constitution means that, as in previous years, women students will not be eligible for the Vice-Presidency of the Students' Society, the office held by the President of the Students' Union. Also, graduate students will not yet be able to run for Students' Society posts.

Leaders Protest

University leaders have objected to one of the proposals made for obtaining the $25,000,000 held in trust for Quebec universities.

Under the contested formula, Ottawa would be handing the accumulated funds directly to the universities. These would then hand the sum to the provincial government on condition that the money be placed in a sinking fund being established to help capital construction projects.

A university spokesman stated that no charter allows a university to give money to a government or to dispose of it for any purpose but its own use. Should a university act in this manner the action could be contested successfully in court.

Both the provincial and Federal governments have indicated that a solution has been found for the return of the money held in trust but no announcements have been made as yet.

These governments are still deliberating on the question of how the universities of Quebec may obtain the $16,000,000 held for them by the Canada Council.

DR. W. PENFIELD

Born in Spokane, Washington in 1891, Dr. Penfield was educated at Princeton University, John Hopkins University, and Oxford University where he was a Rhodes Scholar in 1914 and 1919. He has also done post-graduate work in England, France, and Germany.

Dr. Penfield has had a distinguished medical career. He has worked at Columbia University, New York Neurological Institute, and the Vanderbilt Clinic.

Dr. Penfield has also done extensive work on epilepsy, and has published several books in this subject, a fairly recent one being "Epilepsy and the Functional Anatomy of the Human Brain", which was done in conjunction with Dr. Herbert Jasper of the Montreal Neurological Institute.

OTHER FIELDS

Dr. Penfield's work has also extended beyond the medical field. He has written a novel, "No Other Gods", which was acclaimed in literary circles. Another contribution of his is found in the field of education where he acted as the Chairman of the Education Conference in Ottawa.

His visiting lecture series include the Lane Lectures in Stanford, the Dunham Lectures at Harvard, the Vanuxem Lectures at Princeton, and the Thayer Lectures at John Hopkins. He also lectured at the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences, at Moscow in 1955.

"Vote Early, Vote Often"

by JOEL ARTHUR ROBINS

Professor James R. Mallory, now chairman of the Economics and Political Science department at McGill, was asked shortly after a recent election probe in Montreal-Cartier to explain an electoral upset.

"Well," said the professor with a wry smile, "the matter can be explained this way. Electorates change rapidly. Each year, for example, several young citizens attain majority and are consequently enfranchised. Contemporaneously, thousands of older citizens are laid to permanent rest, never to vote again... except by proxy... in Cartier..."

The class applauded Professor Mallory's pungent wit, laughing with academic detachment. But when the applause and laughter had subsided, several unsophisticated students started to pummel the professor with questions.

Surely, they urged, the instances of electoral corruption witnessed in Cartier were isolated and insignificant. No political party could get away with things like that. Cartier is not a "typical urban riding". Just a bit of Montreal colour, that's all. Something that happened once and won't happen again in a decade.

Well, these students were wrong. What was witnessed in the Cartier riding in 1957 will probably prevail there again next election. And it will prevail in other urban ridings as well.

One instance of such unrestrained political enthusiasm outside Cartier was cited in the Quebec legislature last week. René Hamel, the Liberal member for St. Maurice, produced an official election return which showed that in St. James, riding 212 valid ballots were counted in a poll which listed only 207 qualified electors. St. James is represented by the Hon. Paul Dozois, Municipal Affairs Minister in the Union Nationale Cabinet.

Attorney-General Rivard, in response to this allegation, made this statement (as reported in the Montreal Star): he said "he had enough confidence in the honesty (sic) of the Quebec voter to know that he took voting seriously, and the proof is that he keeps re-electing us."

Because "les Québécois" are so honest at elections, and because our system is so good, the Union Nationale last week voted down an opposition bill calling for an investigation into voting procedures in Quebec.

This was a regrettable move. An investigation might have brought into public limelight the methods by which politicians are elected and defeated at public polls. It would inform the naive and shame the sophisticated.

It might also have put an end to voting by proxy... even in Cartier.

Letters to the Editor

Oh, John, Let's Not Park Here

Sir:
Last October a list was posted on the McGill Union notice board which authorized certain student officials to park their cars in the limited parking space behind the Union. We realize that parking space around the campus was at a premium. Therefore only students who use the building often and in an official capacity were allowed to park here. Appropriate signs were put up in the parking lots.

Certain students have been parking their cars in a lane which is used for the delivery of groceries to the Union kitchens. As the catering staff shovels out this lane themselves, it seems unreasonable that students should block this lane with their cars. Student officials are only authorized to park in the larger parking lot and no students other than those on the parking list should place their cars here.

Chairman,
McGill Union Board of Managers.

Is Chessman A Pawn in the Game?

Sir:
What penalty must a man pay for his crime, to what extent should the penalty be carried? Should politics enter into the picture? What does society demand from Caryl Chessman?

Chessman, the perverted sex kidnapper was awarded a stay of execution. It was the eighth time in almost twelve years that Chessman had been saved from scheduled death. Never before had death been so close; less than ten hours and thirteen steps from death in the gas chamber.

The stay was ordered by Governor E.G. Brown of California, mainly because a letter had been received from the Assistant State Secretary R.R. Rubattom Jr., that Chessman's execution would cause violent demonstrations against President Eisenhower during his planned visit to Uruguay. Governor Brown also said that he wanted to give the people of California an opportunity, through legislation, to express their views on capital punishment.

Whether or not I approve of capital punishment is irrelevant at this moment. My opinion is subjective: Let us be rational; let us think of Caryl Chessman.

If a man is going to be given a reprieve, let it not be for political reasons. The case should have been settled by Governor Brown rather than be given to the legislature. Rather than enforce California's existing law, the Governor reprieved Chessman for a period of sixty days in the hope that the legislature will abolish the death penalty before the end of the 60 day period and "get the Governor off the hook".

It is inconceivable to think that incipient mobs of students and small groups can cause unwarranted interference with the judicial processes of the state. Governor Brown considered the message from Rubattom as "an implied recommendation for clemency. They (meaning the State Department) wouldn't act but they wanted me to act". In my opinion the United States and the State of California are at a low — an extremely low stage, when they allow emotionalism in South America and throughout the world to shape the administration of justice in California and the U.S.

In my opinion, the two reasons given by Governor Brown may have only been excuses for a clever psychological move. The condemned man is under a great emotional strain; he counts the months, the weeks, the days, and finally the hours. By the time he has reached the stage where only ten hours of life remain, he is probably thankful that the hour is swiftly approaching so that he may finally have peace after 12 years of waiting; he is prepared for death. The tribulation, the pain, the agony is not in dying — the gas chamber death is quick and painless. The suffering, the paying of the penalty is the anticipation, the mental anguish of thinking of that fatal hour. The human mental torture that he has gone through is worse than death. The anticipation is the penalty, not the actual dying. As far as I'm concerned, Caryl Chessman died last Thursday.

If I am wrong in my assumption of a psychological game, then I am ashamed to learn that the U.S. public officials are taking orders from foreign troublemakers on how to handle U.S. domestic business.

I can just visualize Chessman twisting the words of an old poem and reciting it as such:

"I'm glad that I'm an American
I'm sad that I'm not free
I wish that I were a little dog
And Governor Brown a tree".

"Fallout" Lecture Slated For Nuclear Discussion

In conjunction with the recently-formed Nuclear Studies Group, Dr. Fred Knelman will speak on "Fallout" at 1 pm today in the Union Clubroom.

A chemical engineer who gained his Ph.D. at Imperial College of Science, London University, Dr. Knelman has conducted one research project in a field connected with the topic of his talk, but on the whole, he stated, his approach to this lecture is that of the "informed layman".

In 1954, (the year of the American test at Bikini Atoll which had such disastrous effects on the crew of the 'Lucky Dragon'), Dr. Knelman remarked that he "became seriously alarmed by the discrepancy between official reports on the effects of radioactive fallout and the findings of independent authorities."

Together with some other scientists he formed an investigating committee which attempted to discover the truth behind the propaganda. The findings of the committee so alarmed the members that they attempted to initiate some protest action. They were met with general disinterest.

It was not until April 1959, when Senator Anderson revealed that through an error of the A.E.C. fallout was descending on the earth at a far faster rate than had been thought previously and was concentrated on north-eastern Canada and the United States, that any public alarm was expressed.

At this time two independent women investigators who had formed a Montreal branch of the Committee for Sane Nuclear Policy in the States approached Dr. Knelman with a view to co-ordination of effort. Feeling that "the time was ripe" Dr. Knelman organized the Canadian Committee for Control of Radiation Hazards which is holding its first National Convention next month.

DAILY SPORTS

Sportrait — John Moore

Most of the basketball headlines this winter have been monopolized by a fellow who, if you can remember back to last football season, copped his share of grid ink also. As a star forward for the courtmen and dependable wingback for the gridders John Moore has, in the last two years, distinguished himself as one of the most versatile performers ever to don the Red and White.

Like so many other outstanding athletes, John started his career in sports as a youngster. In his native London Ont. Moore was principally a baseball, football, and basketball man. When he entered London Catholic Central High School John began to concentrate on the two sports which eventually brought him into the limelight here.

John Moore entered McGill in 1956. In his first year he was busily engaged in intermediate Football and basketball and his studies in the Commerce course. That first football season was an unfortunate one for Moore. He injured his knee early in the fall and could not compete in regular season play. Despite this obstacle he fared well in the practice sessions of the following fall and made the big jump to the senior Redmen.

Meanwhile Moore had developed into a key man for the basketball team. He was one of the most prolific scorers by the end of his second season with the Redmen.

McGill athletics has another year to depend on the services of Moore. He will only be finished with his junior year come this spring. When he graduates in the spring of 1961 Moore hopes to go into business in London. To the relief of fans though, he'll be around for a while yet.

News For The Co-eds

Entrants must represent a faculty, fraternity and residence, with the highest accumulation of points representing the winner. The Silver Arrow is up for grabs.

RIFLERY

This Thursday marks the completion of the Intramural Rifle Meet which has been running for the past few weeks. Teams of three must enter and each participant must shoot two targets in prone position. Ammunition is free. Joan Olmstead has been handling the Club's chores this year and will be succeeded by Ann Hislop starting next September.

SQUASH

An Intramural Squash Tournament is scheduled for tonight in the Currie gym. All students who have had some experience in squash are eligible to vie for top squash honours.

For those interested in playing squash recreationally there are eleven squash courts available from 9 am-10 pm in the Currie gym.

SKI DAY

A Ski Day has been scheduled to take place this Saturday in the Laurentians near Val Morin. Races have been arranged for those interested in participating competitively, but this is not compulsory. Cost for the trip, which includes tows and bus fare, is $5.00. Apply at the Physical Education Office immediately.

OPEN MEETING

The Women's Athletic Association Open Meeting will be held on Monday March 7 at 1 pm in the RVC Common Room. Elections for the position of Secretary, Treasurer, RAC Chairman, and Women's Athletic Board Representative will be held at this meeting. Short reports on the year's activities will be presented by the Presidents of the various clubs. A minor change to the constitution will be put forth.

Skiers Win Carnival Meet

The intercollegiate ski championship and the McGill Winter Carnival ski meet were scheduled to coincide this year but as the saying goes "The Best Laid Plans Of Mice And Men..." Due to bad weather conditions, the men's cross country and the girls' events were cancelled. Consequently, the final results are based on only three events, the downhill, slalom and jumping. Based on these events the colleges finished in the following order:

McGill	275.07 points
Dartmouth	272.03
Laval	270.82
Carleton	270.54
U. of M.	262.77
Queen's	262.20
Toronto	259.90

Peter Reid, one time McGill ski great, and Vic Nikitin were the Redmen coaches and the team was composed of the following six players: Murray Elder, Nick Matossian, Hugh Harris, Tony Blair, Tony Maxwell and Don Welch.

In the jumping event, Laval captured first place team honours by virtue of the great flying of Gerard Laroche. Paul Mercier of the U. of M. placed second and William Burton of Dartmouth finished third.

The Alpine combined saw Peter Guy of Ottawa's Carleton College sweep first place followed by Murray Elder and Hugh Harris, both of McGill.

The downhill event went to the Redmen as Tony Blair, Hugh Harris and Murray Elder finished first second and third respectively.

Peter Guy of Carleton finished first again, this time in the slalom with Elder finishing second and Gord Gibson of Queen's third. No intercollegiate winner could be declared because of the fact that the cross country race was cancelled.

Swimmers Prep For Time Trial

Tonight, at 7:30, a well-tuned, keyed-up Redmen Swim Team will hold time trials at the Memorial Pool in an effort to shatter three Canadian records.

The program will start off with the 400 yard medley relay. Pete Rees in the backstroke, Al MacDougall in the breaststroke, Cameron Grout in the butterfly and Richard Pound in the crawl will swim in that order.

Next on the card will be Dave Sherwood, Chris Mills, Grout and Pound in the 400 yard free-style relay. Lastly, the same quartet will swim the 800 yard free-style relay.

With the Canadian Intercollegiate Championships coming up in three days, the team is in peak condition and should put on a terrific display for what is hoped will be a sizeable crowd. At this time, it appears that Coach Ross Firth's charges, representatives of the strongest McGill entry in years, have a fine chance of bringing home all the silverware for the first time in three long seasons. We await the outcome eagerly.

POOL BANTER

Cameron Grout has been training harder than ever since losing a moral victory to your's truly last week. A small crowd at pool-side, including starter Richard Pound, was startled by the outcome of a 35 yard race. Grout won only by a foot.

Immediately after there were howling protests and after much argument, I reluctantly consented to let Cameron use his arms next time out. Needless to say, he'll never get the chance.
